DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-27 are pending in the instant application.

Election/Restrictions

2. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 1-13, drawn to a method of identifying a compound that modulates the function of a protein, classified in class 435, subclass 375.
 - II. Claims 14-27, drawn to a method of identifying a nucleic acid that regulates the migration of a developing gonadal cell, classified in class 435, subclass 455.
3. The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:
Inventions of the groups I and II are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01).

In the instant case the different inventions are methods that can be practiced with different compositions and that can identify compositions that may be unrelated and may function by different mechanisms. For example, as disclosed in the specification (lines 34-37 on page 9 continued in lines 1-10 on page 10), the compound to be screened in the method of group I can be a sugar, a protein, a lipid or any other synthetic or natural chemical, which affects the activity or function of a protein. The method of group II, on the other hand, screens for a nucleic acid that affects organogenesis. A nucleic acid identified in the method of group II may not affect the protein of the group I, conversely, a compound identified in the method of group I may not affect the organogenesis in the method of group II. Therefore, the inventions of the groups I and II are patentably distinct and will require separate searches in the patent and non-patent literature. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above, have acquired a separate status in the art shown by their different classification and their recognized divergent subject matter, and because each invention requires a separate, non-coextensive search, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

4. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a petition under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
